Interview: DAU President Katrina McFarland

The leader of DAU speaks candidly about the state of acquisition training, the path to better buying power, and the keys to career success.

9

Systems Engineering: the Affordability Secret Weapon

Mike Holbert

A systems thinking approach, keeping in mind several key questions, can help program managers achieve better buying power.

14

Should Cost Management: Why? How?

Ashton B. Carter, Ph.D., and John Mueller

Implementing should cost management requires understanding the goals of the approach, as well as the people who need to be involved and the areas where the greatest savings can be achieved.

19

Requirements in the Affordability Crosshairs

Jack D. Mohney

What is the state of requirements development vis-à-vis affordability, given changing JCIDS guidance, the planned stand-down of Joint Forces Command, and the change in command at DoD?

26

Pay Me a Little Now or a Lot Later

Test and Evaluation Concepts to Assist in Managing Affordable Weapon Systems Programs

Mike Bohn

To save money over the long term, involve test and evaluation from the start, by integrating it into the program planning.

32

Better Metrics for Better Communication as a Foundation for Better Program Buying Power

Dialogue Between Program Oversight and Program Execution Organizations

Brian Brodfuehrer

A good metrics program can reduce the need for OSD-level reviews and reduce overhead costs—but beware the observer effect, and beware of measuring too much.

37

Tech Data, Please

David L. Gallop

Government control of tech data—when considered and adjusted at each milestone—can reduce operations and sustainment costs through competition.

40

Manufacturing Affordability

S.L. "Dusty" Schilling, Gordon Hagewood, Harry Snodgrass, and Peter Czech

Proven producibility programs can produce major reductions in product development cost and time by reducing the need for design and engineering changes.

45
Sound Cost Estimating
A Pre-Requisite to Ascertaining Affordability of DoD Programs
 Mark Husband, Ph.D.

Using a variety of techniques to crosscheck results in a cost estimate, incorporating all available and relevant information, and including sufficient detail are just some of the factors in creating a sound cost estimate.

50
Supportability as an Affordability Enabler
A Critical Fourth Element of Acquisition Success Across the System Life Cycle
 Bill Kobren

Program managers and their colleagues must adopt a host of practices to ensure sustainability across the full life cycle of a program.

55
Been There, Done That. Got the T-Shirt, Mug, and Hat.
John Krieger, John Pritchard, and Stephen Sputz

Early involvement of defense industry partners can help achieve better buying power, as the authors illustrate in several firsthand accounts.
